

Radial Impaction Bone Tamp and Associated Method

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

5

An instrument for compacting bone material is provided. The instrument includes a first component defining a longitudinal axis of the first component and a second component. The second component is moveably associated with the first component. The second component is moveable at least partially in a radial direction outwardly from 10 the longitudinal axis of the first component.